The initial target is a ratio of one computer to two students.

School computer fund

The National Secondary School Computer Fund is the key component of the initiative. The Australian Government is investing $1.1 billion over five years (2008–2012) through the Fund, to provide for new or upgraded information and communications technology (ICT) for secondary schools with students in years 9 to 12.

In June it was announced that 896 secondary schools across Australia would receive funding for 116,820 computers in the first Round of the Fund.

Through the Fund, grants of $1,000 per computer have been provided. Funding will be delivered through state and territory governments for government schools and Block Grant Authorities for non-government schools. Bulk purchasing arrangements may deliver savings that can be used for associated costs. The objective of Round One funding was to bring those schools with students, in years 9 to 12, with a computer to student ratio of 1:8 or worse to a target ratio of 1:2.

In Round Two, the Government will be seeking to move all secondary schools to the target computer to student ratio of 1:2. By the end of 2008 funds will be available for all schools to move to a target ratio of 1:2.

Fibre connections to schools

Access to reliable, affordable, high speed broadband connections will strengthen the capacity of students, parents, teachers and the wider community to communicate, collaborate and access resources across system, State/Territory and national boundaries.

In recognition of this potential, the Government has committed $100 million to the Fibre Connections to Schools (FCS) initiative. The FCS will contribute to the provision of fibre-to-the-premises (FTTP) broadband connections to Australian schools to deliver speeds of up to 100 megabits per second.
